

We're Looking Ahead — More Than One Quarter at a Time

Top executives like Ivan Seidenberg only need one good quarterly business report or one good deal to make enough money to last a lifetime.

But Bell Atlantic workers don't have such a sweet deal. We need good jobs to support ourselves and our families, and not just through the end of a financial quarter. We're in this for the long haul — our careers, our families' security and our communities are on the line.

Take a look at what Bell Atlantic's top executives earn:

	1999 compensation	merger and retention bonus
Ivan Seidenberg	$28.3 million	$13.9 million
James Cullen	$19.5 million	$5.1 million
Lawrence Babbio	$18.6 million	$9.4 million
Frederic Salerno	$14.2 million	$5.1 million
James Young	$6.0 million	$2.2 million

We've built Bell Atlantic/Verizon into the successful company it is today. We deserve to share in that success.

Good Jobs. Hometown Jobs. Union Jobs.

Communications Workers of America